A baby changes everything – even your financial situation.

Disability insurance can help you pay for everyday living expenses and keep you focused on taking care of the new addition to your family.

How disability insurance can help

- The usual recovery period is six weeks (vaginal delivery) or eight weeks (cesarean delivery). If your claim is approved, your benefits will start after you satisfy your elimination period (waiting period).
- Benefits are paid directly to you to use as you see fit.
- Your disability benefits are not affected by your employer's leave of absence program, the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), your sick leave or paid time off/vacation time.
- If you were not pregnant before your coverage effective date, pregnancy complications, such as pre-term labor, gestational diabetes and pre-eclampsia, are treated just like any other covered sickness.

Your disability policy has a giving birth limitation, which means Paul Revere will not pay disability benefits if you give birth within the first nine months after your coverage effective date. If the pregnancy is considered a pre-existing condition, any dates missed from work due to pregnancy complications may not be covered.

Understanding your elimination period (waiting period)

If your claim is approved, your benefits will start after you have satisfied the elimination period, which is the period of time that no benefits are payable. Your elimination period may vary based on the plan you select.

For illustrative purposes only. Example based on a seven-day elimination period.

Filing your disability claim

If there are no complications, you should file your claim after delivery. For complications before delivery, you should file your claim as soon as the doctor indicates you are unable to continue working.

This coverage has exclusions and limitations that may affect benefits payable. For cost and complete details, see your Paul Revere benefits counselor.
